Mr B's on a slow Monday morning

We offer every customer the chance to talk about books. Because when we talk to customers about books with knowledge, or at least enthusiasm, we sell more books.

Offer extreme customer service. Make sure most customers go away noticing, remembering and appreciating the service received, so that they return and tell others. Never let a customer go away unhappy.

Be opinionated in your bookselling. Don't shy away from giving your views. You are seen as an expert and your opinions will be valued and you will sell more books
